

CURRICULUM VITAE

MIRKO BENVENUTI

Department of Experimental Medicine Via Leon Battista Alberti, 2

Mirko.benvenuti@edu.unige.it

CURRENT POSITION

PhD candidate of the PhD XXIII cycle, course Experimental Medicine curriculum Biochemistry

WORK EXPERIENCE

Since October 2018

Since 2018 Confirmed teacher at the Course for Expert in Micology DM 686/96 organized by the University of Genoa in the fields of mycotoxicology, mycobiochemistry and fungal systematic.

From June 2016 to October 2017

Didactic organizer and collaborator of the Erasmus Mundus PhD at the Department of Department of Naval Engineering, Electrical, Electronics and Telecommunications DITEN, University of Genoa

From 07/01/2014 to 10/04/2015

Collaborator at the Clinic of Respiratory Diseases and Allergology at the IRCCS University Hospital "San Martino" DEPARTMENT OF INTERNAL MEDICINE AND MEDICAL SPECIALTIES in the research project "Analysis of hymenoptera poisons in patients with HVA and subjected to specific immunotherapy", below the guidance of Dr. Giorgio Walter Canonica and Dr. Anna Maria Riccio. The competent activity concerns the collection of hymenoptera in the natural environment, the study of new methods of collection of poison in situ and ex situ and the study of the proteome of the poison of various species of clinical interest

From 15/05/2014 to 15/04/2015

Collaborator at ARPAL, UTCR biodiversity office under the guidance of Dr. Valter Raineri. The activities carried out include: study and review of biodiversity in Liguria, study of alien botanical species in Liguria, drafting impact assessments of wind power plants on the chiropterofauna and dell'ornitofauna with particular reference to the study of cumulative impacts, drafting of tracks data records and data processing on digital sheets.

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

June 2015 / October 2017

University of Genoa, Italy

Course for Expert in Micology DM 686/96 October 2014 / October 2015 University of Genoa, Italy