INFORMATION

Federica Maria Lorusso

In a nutshell...

I am an Italian Industrial Designer and Ph.D. student in Design at the University of Campania and the University of Genoa, where I currently reside for my doctoral studies. My ongoing research, which originated from my Master's thesis at the Polytechnic of Bari, focuses on enhancing urban public spaces through co-design with the local community. By applying the Design for All approach, I aim to make these spaces more attractive, inclusive, and functional for the entire community.
